

Fancy a takeaway?

“Staying in is the new going out” as the saying goes - and for many of us, as the evenings get longer, we might be glad of a delivery from our favourite takeaway. The average cost of a takeaway meal is £7.80 and statistics tell us that the average resident in the UK household spends over £500 a year on them, which adds up to nearly £30,000 over a lifetime.

But with busy lives to live, why shouldn't we save ourselves the effort of cooking now and again and phone through an order? But for little more than the delivery charge that some outlets now add, you could make a regular gift to Home Mission that would make a significant difference to someone's life. By supporting “count me in” you enable new mission initiatives across the North Western area. If you can spare a fiver a month can we count you in? Please visit our website to find out more.

www.nwba.org.uk/countmein