

Advent is a season that invites us to believe,
When the circumstances of this world,
Might tempt us to despair.

To believe that good will prevail,
Even though evil seems still to thrive.

To believe in visions of a better world,
Though endeavours to pursue it might be thwarted.

To believe that God is present,
Even when we struggle to see where.

To remember that the purposes of Heaven,
Have often been accomplished,
Through events that few would recognise,
As the means of greater good.
